

EMPTY HOUSE

(Neil Murray)

He came home to an empty house
Kids were gone, she'd moved out
They had some problems he thought they'd get through
He didn't ever want to say good-bye to her
They've gone somewhere, nobody knows
He's worried sick, but she don't even phone
Is there someone to comfort them now?
He fell down in an empty house

To have his children taken away
Is the hardest hit he's had to take
He can feel his daughter crying somewhere
She can't understand why he's not there
Whose arms will hold her now?
His tears fall in an empty house

He didn't want you to go
He didn't want you to go
The man is kicked when the woman has gone
She keeps the kids from him, he gets no response
If you hold him to blame, don't hold them to ransom
Every child needs to love their daddy

Each morning he wakes up, the nightmare remains
Can't seem to find what to do with his days
Every toy in the yard stays in one place
The swing in the tree doesn't bend or break
It's no good hangin' 'round
He can't stay in an empty house

He didn't want you to go
He didn't want you to go
He didn't want you to go
The man is kicked when the woman has gone
She keeps the kids from him, he gets no response
If you hold him to blame, don't hold them to ransom
Every child needs to love their daddy, yeah
He didn't want you to go
He didn't want you to go
He didn't want you to go, oh no
He didn't want you to go
No, he didn't want...you to go
